

INTRODUCTION

For over seventeen years I have had the privilege to either Pastor a Sunday School or teach a Sunday School class. During these years God has allowed me to work with some very wonderful people. People who love children. People who care for children. People who think like children. These people have taught me volumes about children.

As a Pastor I have written many lessons for my teachers. These lessons have been born from them. Teachers have helped me fine tune them. They have taught this preacher more about how to reach the heart and mind of children.

As a result I have become a conglomeration of people. Nothing I have written has just come from my mind. They have come from the minds of all those who have worked with me, taught me and whose material I have read over the years. If you read something and say, "I read that some place before," you probably have. I must have also and it has become a part of me.

Since nothing I have is original, but has come as a result of all those who I have been around me, feel free to copy these lessons and use them in any way that would help you or your church. I only ask that you not sell them.

These lessons are not to be thought of as being an in-depth study or an exhaustive study. They are just fundamental, Bible believing, introductory lessons. To help create an appetite for the young mind. These are good for Junior Church, Family Devotions and for Sunday School.

May God bless you as you read and use these lessons.

A laborer in His field,

Douglas Marco